

Petition to fully enforce & strengthen waste rules to reduce Alaska's Greenhouse Gas Emissions

December 18, 2018

To: Hollis French, Chair and members of the Alaska Oil & Gas Conservation Commission

Dear Commissioners:

As you well know, Alaska is on the front lines of climate change that imminently threatens 87% of Alaska Native communities.

The Alaska Oil and Gas Conservation Commission has the power to significantly slash the state's carbon emissions simply by enforcing existing statutes (outlined below) that require industry to minimize waste, i.e. largely methane, a greenhouse gas 30 times more powerful than CO<sub>2</sub>.

The Alaska Department of Environmental Conservation 1990-2015 Greenhouse Gas Inventory Report concludes that more than half of Alaska's GHG emissions comes from the oil and gas sector. Of that, fugitive methane from oil and gas production contributed over 19% of GHG emissions in 2015.

We urge you to direct staff of the Alaska Oil and Gas Conservation Commission to fully enforce and strengthen existing statutes (§AS 31.05.027, AS 31.05.095, AS 31.05.170 and 20 ACC 25.235) requiring Alaska's oil and gas industry to stop all non-emergency venting and flaring from Alaska oil and gas wells. This single, but powerful step would reduce our total greenhouse gas emissions significantly and send a clear message to industry, the nation and world that Alaska takes climate change seriously.

Methane (CH<sub>4</sub>) is a potent greenhouse gas (GHG) capable of trapping more than 25 times more solar radiation than CO<sub>2</sub> over a 100-year period. According to your own data, the oil and gas industry flared over 17 million cubic feet (McF) of GHG emissions between 2012 and 2017; an average of nearly 3 McF per year, roughly equivalent to 30% of the average annual demand of the Railbelt utility system.

Stopping flaring and venting of methane on the North Slope and Cook Inlet was unanimously supported by the oil and gas industry representatives on Governor Palin's Mitigation Advisory Group in 2008 yet no Alaska official has ever acted on this recommendation. With climate change now front and center in all regions of Alaska, enforcing existing statutes is the low-hanging fruit for Alaska to take a giant step in reducing harmful greenhouse gas emissions.

The latest International Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) report leaves no doubt; the window of opportunity for averting climate catastrophe is shrinking. At best, we have twelve years to substantially cut GHG emissions. Taking this definitive step today will not only vastly improve air quality in impacted communities but it could reduce costs for industry and increase state revenue.

We urge you to use your authority as Chair and members of AOGCC to direct AOGCC staff to fully address the egregious violations of Alaska State statutes regarding emissions of methane waste.

Sincerely,

1. Bob Shavelson, Homer, AK
2. Elisa Russ, Homer, AK. Please Governor Walker - this is something that you can leave as part of your legacy before the new governor comes in and allows more pollution and corruption. Thank you for doing the right thing. We have a moral obligation to take action and mitigate the effects of climate change by reducing carbon emissions in order to ensure a healthy environment for future generations.
3. Ceal Smith, Alaska Climate Action Network, Eagle River, AK
4. Scott Gruhn, Alaska Climate Action Network, Anchorage, AK. This is urgent. Every nation in the world signed the Paris Agreement for a reason.
5. Rosemary Ahtuangaruak, Nuiqsut, AK. Cut emissions as much as you can I will take 50% but push for more as this needs to be better. Protections for human health in California prevent more than 10 flares a year. We have seen 30 or more in a night at Nuiqsut. Same issue human health California and Alaska. Please protect us too.
6. Rick Steiner, Anchorage, AK. AOGCC has the authority and responsibility to act on this request, and anything less than immediate and effective action would constitute litigable negligence.
7. Bjorn Olson, Alaska Climate Action Network, Homer, AK. Please do not miss this opportunity to curb Alaska's greenhouse gas emissions. Alaska, as you well know, is on the front lines of climate change; requiring the oil and gas industry to minimize waste is low hanging fruit in our global effort to avert climate chaos.
8. McKibben Jackinsky, Alaska Climate Action Network, Anchorage, AK
9. Bretwood Higman, Soldovia, AK. There's a lot of low-hanging fruit out there to mitigate climate change - things that might give us a little more time to make deeper systemic changes before cataclysmic effects set in. Reducing methane flaring and leakage is high on this list!
10. Elizabeth Roderick, Anchorage, AK
11. Martha Itta, Nuiqsut, AK. Please Help to stop them from contaminating our water, our food, and most of all quit killing us!
12. Eunice Brower, Nuiqsut, AK. Please start enforcing existing waste statutes in and around Nuiqsut, Alaska. Protect the people, wildlife, and vegetation from so many toxins that are polluting the air we breathe, and the plants we eat.
13. Kendra Zamzow, Sutton, AK. Please consider this request to reduce methane emissions from venting and flaring. Please consider also funding work to map natural gas leaks in towns and cities that also contribute methane to the atmosphere, as has been done at cities around the US (<https://www.edf.org/climate/methanemaps>).
14. Cook Inletkeeper, Anchorage, AK
15. Kerry Williams, Eagle River, AK
16. Kimberly Slone, Wasilla, AK Please cut greenhouse gas emissions. In Alaska we could curb emissions by holding oil and gas corporations to a zero-methane leak standard and reduce burn off to a higher industry standard than was set in 2016. Methane, as I'm sure you are aware, is the second biggest driver of climate change after carbon dioxide. Oil and gas corporations are responsible for leaking methane and burning it off. This toxic, smog-causing pollution is harmful to wildlife and people. The toxic pollutants released alongside methane can trigger asthma attacks and increase the risk of cancer. Oil and gas industry safety standards can and must be increased. Facilities must limit their methane releases and prevent leaks in infrastructure. Human beings cannot survive a hot planet, we cannot eat sickened animals, but we can change.

17. Karin Dahl, Anchorage, AK
18. Kimberlee McNett, Anchorage, AK
19. David Matheny, Healy Lake, AK. We Alaskans did not choose to be in the center of our climate crisis, but we can choose to be a pivotal example for change in solving this shared emergency. Please carefully consider taking this bold and definitive step to reduce our climate impact and allow us to be a leading light for other communities in the United States and beyond. I thank you so much for your leadership and careful stewardship of this great state of ours. Sincerely, David Matheny Life-long Fairbanksan.
20. Carole Comeau, Eagle River, AK. Alaska stands in a unique place with regard to being able to make a very real contribution right now toward reducing damage due to carbon emissions produced within our state. I would urge you to use your current power as the Oil and Gas Conservation Commission to enforce the already existing statutes to require the oil and gas industry to reduce the current levels of greenhouse gasses that they produce. Thank you.
21. Karen Beaudin, Anchorage, AK
22. Aaron Surma, Juneau, AK
23. Abby Smola, Soldotna, AK
24. Allen Dahl, Anchorage, AK. Please help protect the numerous Alaskan communities currently being affected and endangered by human driven climate change. Please pledge to enforce the upkeep of the regulations for the oil and gas industry to minimize their waste, and take steps to reduce emissions. Thank you.
25. Adele Josepho, Anchorage, AK
26. Linda Gorman, Anchorage, AK
27. D Gasaway, Fairbanks, AK

130. Kimberly Porter, Anchorage, AK
131. KAREN MCCRAE, Juneau, AK
132. Kat Haber, Homer, AK. Methane is 84 times more lethal than CO<sub>2</sub>. Alaska is suffering the most dire climate consequences of any American state. NCA4 affirms the times we are in. Alaska faces a much steeper mitigation and adaptation to climate change. We would be wise to immediately change course. Climate consequences are adding black carbon into our atmosphere like a sewer. Please create a better future for us all by enforcing existing regulations. How might we shift the cultures of oil/gas companies to be ever more diligent about their polluting Alaska?

133. Katie Gavenus, Anchorage, AK
134. John Kaufman, Anchorage, AK I look forward to a future in which we can be partners in the fight against global warming!!
135. Deborah Vandruff, Anchorage, AK
136. Karyn Murphy, Anchorage, AK. Please do what you can to help Alaska be a leader in what can be done to protect our future. We can make changes that will slow the effects of climate change.

217. Laura Thate, Juneau, AK We have a sacred duty to care for our environment this great state of ours is Ground Zero of global warming. Last year we lost 1/3 of our ice sheet and we were 48° above normal. I am sick and tired of all the denial when we can see it with our own Alaskan eyes. The devastation that climate change due to human activities and political decision-making has created. It is our responsibility ensuring that these greenhouse emissions through methane. Alaskans have a deep responsibility to care for the land! It is your responsibility it is your duty!
